

Angel

October 2003 • Issue 73 • £1 where sold

Hallowed Turf

An Islington production company revisits a horror classic

Pad Party

An autumn special featuring ideal ideas for your home

“I forgot to eat and everything.”

Rhona Cameron tells all about her busy life

Arts & Ents

A SLICE OF LIFE

“Gaining the sense of a space and/or environment frequently engages my curiosity,” reveals Stoke Newington’s Alex Roberts, the artist responsible for this month’s front cover. “This deep fascination, or perhaps obsession, drives me to explore an environment, to understand it, and to try and say something about how that space (natural or man-made) comes together.”

During October, right through to the New Year, you will have the chance to witness the outcome of Alex’s obsession. ‘A Slice of Life’ is her rich solo exhibition at the Olympia Conference Centre. It highlights dynamic and eye-catching moments from the last five years of her life.

“The visual result from the working process tries to capture a moment in time,” Alex explains, “while reflecting the complexity and ephemeral nature of life.”

A Slice of Life: 1998-2003, until January 3, 2004. Olympia Conference Centre, W14. Viewing by appointment only – please call 020 7598 2425 for more details. For more on Alex Roberts, please visit www.alexroberts.com.

